Movlian awarded SPIE Optics and Photonics Education Scholarship

BELLINGHAM, Washington, USA – May 31, 2019 – Kateryna Movlian has been awarded a 2019 Optics and Photonics Education Scholarship by SPIE, the international society for optics and photonics, for her potential contributions to the field of optics, photonics or related field.

Movlian is a first-year MS student at Taras Shevchenko National University of Kyiv (Ukraine). She has achieved successful results in her Bachelor's graduation work and continues her research supported by Prof. Sergiy Kondratenko. Her current research is focused on the improving of the efficiency of solar cells by application of quantum-sized structures. "I am planning to present my work at international conferences in order to attract foreign scientists to collaborate with," said Movlian.

The Society awarded $298,000 in education scholarships to 84 outstanding SPIE student members, based on their potential contribution to optics and photonics, or a related discipline. Award-winning applicants were evaluated, selected and approved by the SPIE Scholarship Committee, Chaired by SPIE volunteer Jeremy Bos.

Through 2018, SPIE has distributed $6 million dollars in individual scholarships. This ambitious effort reflects the Society's commitment to education and to the next generation of optical scientists and engineers around the world.
