Khan awarded SPIE Optics and Photonics Education Scholarship

BELLINGHAM, Washington, USA – May 31, 2019 – Muhammad Talal Ali Khan has been awarded a 2019 Optics and Photonics Education Scholarship by SPIE, the international society for optics and photonics, for his potential contributions to the field of optics, photonics or related field.

Khan is a PhD candidate in the Photonics and Optical Communication Group (POCG) in the School of Electrical Engineering and Telecommunications at the University of New South Wales (Australia). Under the joint supervision of Dr. Shaghik Atakaramians and Prof. Gang-Ding Peng, he is conducting research on the development of functional Terahertz (THz) waveguide-based devices for future THz integrated systems. “I am passionate to disseminate the knowledge of optics and photonics through talks and participations via SPIE scholarship to connect my work with the broader scientific community,” said Khan.

The Society awarded $298,000 in education scholarships to 84 outstanding SPIE student members, based on their potential contribution to optics and photonics, or a related discipline. Award-winning applicants were evaluated, selected and approved by the SPIE Scholarship Committee, Chaired by SPIE volunteer Jeremy Bos.

Through 2018, SPIE has distributed $6 million dollars in individual scholarships. This ambitious effort reflects the Society's commitment to education and to the next generation of optical scientists and engineers around the world.
