Kozin awarded SPIE Optics and Photonics Education Scholarship

BELLINGHAM, Washington, USA – May 31, 2019 – Valerii Kozin has been awarded a 2019 Optics and Photonics Education Scholarship by SPIE, the international society for optics and photonics, for his potential contributions to the field of optics, photonics or related field.

Kozin is working on his PhD at the University of Iceland (Iceland) and ITMO University (Russian Federation) in Condensed Matter Physics and Quantum Optics under the guidance of co-advisors Dr. Ivan Shelykh (Univ. of Iceland) and Dr. Ivan Iorsh (ITMO Univ.). He is an author of six journal articles, one of which was featured in Physical Review B: Rapid Communications. Specifically, he is working on developing theoretical models for many-body effects in driven quantum systems that can be used in prospective devices operated by light. Kozin has performed outreach activities and taught courses in Quantum Mechanics and Optics.

The Society awarded $298,000 in education scholarships to 84 outstanding SPIE student members, based on their potential contribution to optics and photonics, or a related discipline. Award-winning applicants were evaluated, selected and approved by the SPIE Scholarship Committee, Chaired by SPIE volunteer Jeremy Bos.

Through 2018, SPIE has distributed $6 million dollars in individual scholarships. This ambitious effort reflects the Society's commitment to education and to the next generation of optical scientists and engineers around the world.

SPIE is the international society for optics and photonics, an educational not-for-profit organization founded in 1955 to advance light-based science, engineering, and technology. The Society serves 257,000 constituents from 173 countries, offering conferences and their published proceedings, continuing education, books, journals, and the SPIE Digital Library. In 2018, SPIE provided more than $4 million in community support including scholarships and awards, outreach and advocacy programs, travel grants, public policy, and educational resources. www.spie.org.
