Badalyan awarded SPIE Optics and Photonics Education Scholarship

BELLINGHAM, Washington, USA — Nune Badalyan has been awarded a 2023 Optics and Photonics Education Scholarship by SPIE, the international society for optics and photonics, for potential contributions to the field of optics, photonics, or related field.

Badalyan is a graduate student in the Institute of Physics at Yerevan State University (Armenia). She is an active part of the university's PhotonicsAI Lab and is also the current president of the Student Scientific Society of the Institute. "With the help of this scholarship I will further strengthen my educational possibilities and will enlarge my academic studies in the field of quantum photonics during my master's program," said Badalyan.

In 2023, the Society is awarding $293,000 in education scholarships to 72 outstanding SPIE Student Members, based on their potential contribution to optics and photonics, or a related discipline. Award-winning applicants were evaluated, selected, and approved by the SPIE Scholarship Committee, chaired by SPIE Senior Member Brian Primeau.

Since the program began, SPIE has distributed more than $7 million dollars in individual scholarships. This ambitious effort reflects the Society's commitment to education and to the next generation of optical scientists and engineers around the world.
